FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Barchart Powers New TraderBytes Real-Time Market Data Feed Service

CHICAGO, IL – May 13, 2009 – Barchart.com, Inc., a leading provider of real-time market data and information, today announced a new relationship with TraderBytes, Inc. to provide TraderBytes subscribers with real-time market data for futures, stocks, forex and indices. The TraderBytes service provides Barchart's high-powered market data feeds to traders around the world, at a low cost. Barchart and TraderBytes have implemented a complete web-based process for users to subscribe to the TraderBytes service.

A core feature of the service is a real-time market index data feed package offered for $15 per month. Many data feeds provided by brokerage firms do not provide index data, making this service valuable to those users. Additionally, traders can subscribe to futures, stocks and forex real-time data starting at $35 per month combined with optional free quote viewer software. Additionally, traders can subscribe to futures, stocks and forex real-time data starting at only $35 per month. The TraderBytes data feed is compatible with the Ensign Windows charting software.

"Our relationship with TraderBytes helps fill a hole in the availability of real-time index market data for users of brokerage firm data feeds," said Mark Haraburda, Managing Director of Sales and Business Development for Barchart. "Additionally, we are now able to offer a compatible data feed to power Ensign Windows, which is very popular and proven trading software," said Haraburda.
