Barchart Partners with Technical Trading Solutions, Provider of iPad® Charting App

CHICAGO, IL – July 28, 2011 – Barchart.com, Inc., a leading provider of market data and information, today announced a data feed relationship with Technical Trading Solutions Ltd., a provider of technical analysis software, and developer of iChartist for iPad®. With their newly formed relationship, users of iChartist for iPad can subscribe to Barchart's real-time data feeds which are sourced directly from futures and equity exchanges. iChartist and Barchart have implemented a direct integration for users to select Barchart as a data source.

"iChartist users are now able to receive real-time equity, index, forex and futures data from Barchart, directly on their iPad," said Eero Pikat, President of Barchart. "We are excited to partner with iChartist and for their users to have access to Barchart's data through a mobile device," said Pikat.

iChartist for iPad is a fully featured charting and technical analysis application for active traders and investors. Designed to provide the power and flexibility of a high-end desktop application, iChartist supports a wide selection of the most popular technical indicators and drawing tools. iChartist allows traders to actively monitor intraday charts in real-time, and perform advanced technical analysis, while away from their trading desk.

"iChartist is the first iPad app that provides the full power of a desktop charting application. With support for tick-by-tick real-time data from Barchart, intraday traders no longer need to be glued to their trading desk to monitor their positions," said Timon Haringa, Technical Director of Technical Trading Solutions. "The ability to interact with charts through the iPad's touch screen also provides for a more intimate and immersive user experience, and the mobility of the iPad provides technical analysts with the convenience of being able to review charts from the couch, or even the beach for that matter," said Haringa.
